

Christophe Duclos

Christophe is a Level 2 French Fencing Master. He was the national coach for Jordan in 2005 and for Qatar from 2006 to 2011. He just moved to Portland with his wife Natasha and their two daughters.

In 1988, Christophe joined the National Training Center of Aix-en-Provence. Gilles Tabarant was his fencing master. Christophe also represented France at several World Cups.

In 1991, he joined the French Naval Academy and served as an officer until 1995. In 1999, he was a territorial agent, in charge of trail development in the south-east of France and was a fencing coach in Gap.

In 2000, Christophe earned his Fencing Master degree and coached in Montélimar. In 2003, he earned his level 2 Fencing Master Degree and became National coach for the French National Paralympics' Team. He trained Cyril Moré for 4 years (Cyril won the 2004 Paralympics' Games in Athens.)

When not fencing, he likes running, swimming, climbing and diving.